Comrades and friends,

The 80th anniversary of the WPK is a glorious milestone thanks to the immortal achievements it has made over the long years for the country and the people and for the times and history.

The founding of our Party did not simply mean the birth of a political party in a country; it was a political event that signalled the emergence on the stage of history a new-type revolutionary party that would verify the righteousness of socialism and demonstrate its unique superiority and might.

From the days of building democracy, which coincided with its founding and the start of its leadership over the overall state and social life, to this day, the WPK has remained faithful to its responsibility and role as an engine of the revolution and guiding force of state administration and, in the course of this, has performed truly remarkable historic exploits.

By successfully leading the social transformation processes of several stages under the uplifted banner of the Juche idea, it has built on this land a genuine people's country with absolute prestige and national strength, a powerful country that comprehensively embodies the socialist ideas and ideals; it also has rendered a significant contribution to implementing the international cause for independence and justice.

The past 80 years were really complicated and arduous, yet worthwhile and glorious.

Those years witnessed a hard-fought war for repulsing the armed invasion by the allied imperialist forces and defending the land and dignity of the country, processes for building a country and creating a life again from scratch, and social revolutions that were accompanied by an acute class struggle and elimination of factions in the Party.

Following the establishment of the socialist system in our country, we found ourselves standing at the forefront of the most acute confrontation between the progressive and the reactionary and between socialism and imperialism. Given the geopolitical position of the country, our Party had to adopt a more resolute approach towards performing its mission of defending socialism; it had to give a strong impetus to implementing the cause of building the country's self-reliant defence capabilities. As the vicious schemes for isolating and stifling the country economically persisted from one century into the next, it had to cope with these schemes proactively and aggressively while pushing forward with the gigantic projects for socialist construction.

Particularly, amidst the worldwide political upheaval in the 1990s, it had to defend our ideology and social system, and entering the new century, in order to cope with the growing nuclear war threats by the US imperialists, it had to lead the people to make a new leap forward in socialist construction while simultaneously carrying on economic construction and build-up of the nuclear forces.

Historically, there has been no such country in the world as ours, which had to carry out so many tasks, both challenging and gigantic, for national defence and construction, even as it was facing constant and tenacious pressure, interference and threats of aggression by outside forces.

In fact, maintaining the political power and defending the social system was a miracle itself, but our Party has taken on all those important tasks; it has cleared an untrdden path for their implementation, writing a history of epochal transformations.

In every period and at every stage of the revolution and construction it has put forth scientific lines and policies to overcome manifold challenges and advanced along the unchangeable track of socialism. On this road, it has propelled the historic cause of building an independent and powerful state.

The significant events that have been recorded in history, as well as the amazing transformations that have been achieved by racing against time, testify to the scientific accuracy and vitality of our Party's revolutionary ideology and lines. As we can clearly see, they constitute a key factor in making substantial and rapid progress in the political, military, economic and cultural fields, particularly in external relations.

For its imperishable exploits the WPK has earned the envious prestige of being a revolutionary party providing seasoned and sophisticated leadership, a steel-strong party that achieves one victory after another, and a genuine people's party that faithfully serves them.

All these exploits and this prestige are unthinkable apart from the precious successes which our Party has achieved in its building.

To ensure that the ranks of the Party and the revolution achieve ideological oneness and organizational unity-this was what our Party defined as a major key to advancing the revolutionary cause along the road of victory. Directing primary concern to this end was an important factor in enhancing the Party's ruling power and guaranteeing the purposefulness and consistency of its leadership activities.

After its founding, our Party had to provide a sure guarantee for achieving oneness in ideology and leadership. This was a crucial and pressing task facing it in preserving its revolutionary features in their original form and leading the gigantic social revolutions and the whole course of state building along the road of victory.

Not only in the initial period of nation building but also during the war and in the post-war years, our Party prioritized establishing the Juche orientation in ideology and equipping Party members and all the other people with the Party's guiding ideology and revolutionary lines. At the same time, it directed primary efforts to strengthening its grass-roots organizations, building up Party ranks as an elite force and improving the fighting efficiency and vitality of its organizations at all levels while intensifying the struggle against any slightest tendency towards separatism.

Whenever it was faced with important tasks in conducting the revolution and construction, and whenever it encountered obstacles in the way of their implementation, our Party directed closer concern to strengthening itself organizationally and ideologically. Unperturbed even in the face of political upheavals, it preserved its ideological purity and organizational integrity; by dint of its high efficiency and seasoned leadership, it led the effort for a revolutionary turn and upsurge in socialist construction.

A party's role as a traction engine propelling the revolution is to be performed through its practical and meticulous leadership.

In the course of solving the problems arising in the revolution and construction and overcoming difficulties, our Party has proactively explored and applied proper approaches and styles of work for making the most of the people's revolutionary zeal and creativity.

Many revolutionary methods of guidance and people-oriented styles of work developed by our Party have been effective in uniting the masses under a single banner, giving full play to their revolutionary and patriotic enthusiasm, and bringing about uninterrupted innovations and amazing miracles on the strength of collectivism and mass heroism while overcoming all sorts of obstacles.

Always aware of and guarding against the possible budding of authoritarianism and a number of other problems which are likely to separate the Party from the masses as its ruling years get longer and one generation is replaced by another, we have made sure that an absolute spirit of serving the people prevails across the Party. This is an important factor in our Party's winning the unchanging trust of the people and encouraging them to entrust by themselves their destiny to our socialist state as a whole.

Our Party has struggled under the uplifted banner of independence and socialism in any adversity; this has made an enormous historic contribution to implementing the common cause of mankind for justice and peace.

Our Party has cherished as part of its faith the validity of the socialist cause and the inevitability of its triumph and perfectly proved the scientific accuracy of its ideals both in theoretical and practical terms, thus offering a substantial contribution to building a powerful barrier against the allied imperialist forces' schemes against socialism and achieving solidarity and unity among the world's progressive forces.

Our Party and government are still coping with our adversaries' ferocious political and military moves of pressure by pursuing harder-line policies, holding fast to firm principles and employing brave, unflinching countermeasures. This is powerfully propelling the growth of the progressive camp against war and hegemony, and the international prestige of our Republic as a faithful member of the socialist forces and a bulwark for independence and justice is further increasing with each passing day.

Comrades and friends,

There is a key to the cause of a victorious party.

It, in a nutshell, is that the party has shared everything with a great people.

The history of working for the people, the history of relying on the strength of the people, is precisely the factor behind all victory and glory our Party has won.

The 80-year history of our Party can be most accurately represented only when it is based on the history of the people; the history of its energetic guidance and the imperishable achievements it has made can identify its secret fairly and squarely only when it is explained by the great, immortal aphorism of "Together with the people."

When it was founded, our Party raised its red flag etched with the ideals and will to build a genuine people's world, which marked a great start of the history it would share with the people and a demonstration of its tremendous power.

As it is etched with the image of the people, the flag of our Party has been felt not so light, since it has been laden not only with the Party's sense of responsibility for the destiny of the people but also with the infinite resourcefulness and creativity of the people who indicate the road of truth, inject invincible courage and propel the advance towards the future all the time.

There has been no mistake or error in our Party's lines over the past 80 years because they encapsulated the people's opinions and requirements; it has won victory after victory without any slight setback or stagnation because it has been powered by the people's wisdom and strength.

As it has led the advance of history on the strength of the people's commitment and efforts, all projects, which our Party has planned for the revolution and construction, have turned into the affairs of the people themselves and reached successful completion.

Those who have brought about all the important events guaranteeing victory and success in our cause for all ages are all the people of this country, the great Korean people, including our heroic working class, agricultural workers and intellectuals.

Today our people are standing in front of the world as powerful beings who know no insurmountable difficulties and no unachievable cause.

The 80-year ruling history of our Party, which has been clearing an untrdden path in reflection of the desires, will and strength of the people and fulfilling the desire for a powerful country together with them, is etching a truth on the times and history once again.

A party that is among the people, not standing above them, a party that shares with them aspirations and ambitions, wisdom and strength, and sweets and bitters, can never disintegrate and does not lose vigour and vitality forever.

It always remains as iron truth that our Party cannot exist apart from the people and that the Party is great as the people are great.

I would like to offer thanks once again to our great people who have always injected strength and wisdom into our Party and devoted pure mind and diligent efforts with belief in victory as well as the Party, while pioneering the arduous and yet sacred socialist cause for as long as 80 years.

Comrades,

As I face the people at this significant moment, I strongly feel once again their boundless trust in and high expectations for our Party.

Thanks to such mind of the people who absolutely support and follow what the Party is determined to do while enduring all hardships, our Party has full confidence in all the work and firmly believes in victory.

When we strive for some more years in the same spirit as now, we can well change our life remarkably and get closer to the goals we aspire to.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I will always cherish love for the people and not neglect my obligation of requital. I affirm my commitment to working harder to live up to their trust.

I will surely turn this country into a more affluent and beautiful land and into the best socialist paradise in the world, with belief in the people supporting our Party and by always becoming one in mind and body with them.

Comrades,

The glorious 80-year history of our Party is encouraging us to wage a more gigantic and fulfilling struggle.

Let us advance with redoubled courage and confidence for the review of a great history which will be filled with greater glory and pride than the great 80 years which the Party and the people pioneered in one mind and body and glorified with victories, and for the final accomplishment of the socialist cause when the dreams and ideals of our people will be realized.

Concluding my speech, I offer my humble wishes for peace and well-being of our beloved people.

I extend my sincere wishes for cordial harmony and happiness to all the families in the country.

Long live the great Workers' Party of Korea and the great Korean people!

and the Special Task Force for Public Security marched past with redoubled courage out of the desire to reliably defend the outposts for defending the leader, the social system and the people.

The audience extended warm congratulations and applause to the vigorous and courageous march of the columns of revolutionary schools who are firmly preparing themselves as pillars that would firmly carry forward the main lifeblood of the Juche revolution.

The column of the Academy of Defence Sciences, guaranteeing the tremendous development of the national defence capability and the building of a powerful and modern army with boundless loyalty to the Party, staunch revolutionary spirit, great scientific and technological abilities and indomitable mettle of creation, dynamically marched past the square.

The dynamic march of the columns of the Worker-Peasant Red Guards and the Children's Guards decorated the final of the march by the foot columns, demonstrating that the WPK and the DPRK are solid and strong as they have the powerful paramilitary forces along with the invincible regular army.

Then the columns of mechanized units made appearance at the parade. The units are the creations of exploits of the self-defensive national defence-building of the WPK which has pushed ahead with the bolstering of the national defence capability without a moment's delay and brought about a rapid leap forward despite all difficulties in the present grim world where the confrontation between forces decides the rise and fall of a state and people.

The column of Chonma-20 tanks, the modern-type main battle tanks with tremendous striking capability and reliable protection system, passed through the square with the will to annihilate the enemies. And it was followed by the column of 155mm self-propelled gun howitzers showcasing the might of the artillery force, the first arms of the KPA.

When the core offensive weapon systems of new generation capable of delivering precision strikes at enemy's major targets and the column of 600mm MLRSs, the unique ultra-modern weapon of Juche Korea in the world, entered the square, the audience warmly welcomed them with enthusiastic cheers and handclaps.

The latest weapons are associated with the far-sightedness, resolute decision, iron faith and boundless devotion of the WPK which laid the foundations for the ordnance industry before anything else after the liberation of Korea in order to defend the dignity and well-being of the country and the people and genuine peace and brought about epochal miracles in building the military capability for self-defence while overcoming the innumerable trials on the untrodden path.

The columns of long-range strategic cruise missile systems, drones, surface-to-air and surface-to-surface missile systems passed through the square one after another, demonstrating the inexhaustible potentiality of defence technology and eye-opening development speed of the DPRK which the world cannot ignore.

The strategic weapon systems, entities of absolute strength that form the essence of the military capability for self-defence steadily bolstered up by the WPK to defend the right to existence and development and peace which the DPRK can never make compromise over, entered the square shaking the earth.

The columns of hypersonic gliding missile systems and hypersonic intermediate-range strategic missile systems moved through the square.

The spectators broke into the most enthusiastic cheers when the column of Hwasongpho-20 ICBMs, the most powerful nuclear strategic weapon system of the DPRK, entered the square, filling the track.

All the participants extended their highest glory and gratitude to Kim Jong Un, the great revolutionary, peerless patriot and peerlessly illustrious commander who is ushering in a new era of heroic Korea when the long-cherished desire of the 5 000-year history, the great cause of building a rich country with a strong army, is being successfully achieved, while leading in the vanguard the cause of patriotic struggle for defending the sovereignty of the state and its development interests and the prosperity of all generations to come.

When the military parade was over, stormy cheers of "Hurrah!" rocked heaven and earth again and the night sky of October was alight with beautiful fireworks of celebration.

Kim Jong Un warmly acknowledged the enthusiastic cheers of the crowd.

The square overflowed with the thoughts and feelings of all the people determined to become a harmonious whole in order to realize all dreams and greet all glories of life only under the red Party flag of Juche forever as they paid the highest tribute to the dignified WPK on its 80th founding anniversary.

The military parade in celebration of the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK will shine forever as a grand political and military festival showing the world that thanks to the WPK, the party of the great Comrade Kim Jong Un, there are the immortal dignity and prestige of the great state, the heroic life and future of the great people and the fame and invincibility of the great army, and as a historic event demonstrating to the whole world the unshakable will of all the people and service personnel to remain forever loyal to the cause of the Party with one mind.

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un's speech at military parade to celebrate 80th founding anniversary of WPK

Generals, officers, commissioned officers and soldiers of the heroic Korean People's Army,

Officers and soldiers of the parade units,

Labour innovators and meritorious persons from across the country, Pyongyang citizens and overseas compatriots,

Esteemed guests of honour who are spending this significant night with us,

The parade of the armed forces of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, the culmination of the celebrations of the 80th founding anniversary of the Workers' Party of Korea, is about to begin.

First of all, I warmly welcome the guests from all walks of life and our dear friends from different countries invited to this grand event.

I extend my heartfelt thanks and congratulations to all the people across the country who have devoted their precious sweat of creation and labour and their sincerity to this October day of glory.

I also express my deep gratitude to the parties and governments of different countries and international democratic organizations for their sincere congratulations to our Party, government and people on the occasion of the significant holiday.

Comrades and friends,

The elite representatives of the armed forces of the Republic, which our Party has built up for as long as 80 years, have now gathered here.

The steel-strong columns of our armed forces will now display the might developed by the WPK for the good of the people whom it embraced as its destiny and for socialism, the unanimous aspiration and choice of our people.

Today we will confirm once again the eternity of our sovereignty and our cause which can only be defended and guaranteed by strength and by victory.

I believe it is a source of exceptional honour and pride for a party leading the revolution with just ideals to celebrate its whole history and demonstrate its bright future through the parade of such brave armed forces.

All the officers and soldiers of the parade units,

I warmly congratulate you on having the greatest privilege of leaving historic steps on the track of glory as you keep the greatest pride of the WPK and the greatest honour of the DPRK.

Comrades and friends,

As I witness the dignity of the soldiers in parade and the warm respect emanating from their eyes on this grand occasion which our army has arranged in celebration of the founding anniversary of the Party, I am wrapped in a solemn feeling at the thought of the officers and soldiers of our army who have always taken the lead in the journey made by the WPK with absolute loyalty and matchless bravery.

Our Party has led the Korean revolution for the last 80 years and reached the present day of glory. As we review its history, we feel infinite dignity and pride in having the loyal armed forces that can share the destiny with the Party.

Our army is the priceless creation and brilliant embodiment of our Party's ardent desire and firm will to safeguard and exalt the truthfulness of its ideals and the dignity of its people generation after generation.

Our Party regarded it as its sacred duty to take entire responsibility for the destiny and future of the country and the people; proceeding from this, we founded an army before the state, identified the character and mission of the army in reflection of the original ideals and spirit set forth when the Party was founded, and built regular revolutionary armed forces with the pioneer generation of the cause of party building as their backbone.

This led to the beginning of the long history of army building, which has advanced along with the leadership history of our Party, and also the beginning of the glorious history of struggle of our cause, which has been firmly supported by strong arms.

As the history records, each stage of victory guided by our Party is adorned with sacred exploits of loyalty and patriotism of our army which left traces of self-sacrifice and feats before others.

The mission of the army in our revolution under unique circumstances was by no means simple.

The distinguished role of the revolutionary armed forces was consolidated and matured in the struggle to defend the sovereignty of our state and its right to development and to safeguard the destiny and future of the people. It always served as the immutable fulcrum in writing a righteous history in line with the will of the Party and a powerful driving force propelling the Korean revolution straight ahead in the same direction indicated by the Party.

These are incomparable, outstanding exploits of our army that it has defended the Party and the lifeline of the revolutionary cause through a bloody struggle in the grim days when our sovereignty and the destiny of the revolution mattered on every step we took.

Along with the change of history, our army's combat capabilities have been upgraded day by day, but the staunch spirit of defending the Party Central Committee at the cost of life has remained unchanged; our army has always maintained its unique tradition of resolutely supporting the Party's cause in the forefront of pioneering and advance.

Our army, which has never been free from its heavy responsibility of containing the worst threat of aggression from the outset of its founding, left the traces of great feats, which no one could replace, on the key stages of reconstruction and socialist construction. This fact highlights the intrinsic nature and unique image of our army, which responds to the call of the Party absolutely and unconditionally.

Our people remember that the precious gains and monumental edifices attesting to the great history of socialist Korea and symbolizing the dignity and honour of our state are associated with the noble blood and sweat and heavier self-sacrifice of the revolutionary army than anyone else, for which our people are eternally thankful generation after generation.

No other group in our country can match the army in terms of such records and achievements.

We can say with credit that the People's Army was the staunch guard who defended the Party in each and every stage of our revolution and the powerful vanguard who supported the Party's leadership most actively throughout the history of our Party when every moment of implementation of the socialist cause was a hand-to-hand fight against counter-revolution and represented the stirring period of great transformation and creation.

What we can say with more confidence now is that the staunch fighting spirit of our army in support of the Party's cause is being displayed on an increasingly higher level with each passing day.

The new era of transformation, which can be called a watershed in the history of struggle of our Party, is a sacred age, i.e., the crystallization of the revolutionary traits, mass heroism and do-or-die fighting spirit of our army which has responded to the Party's decision only with perfect execution, taking it as an absolute truth and supreme order.

In recent years alone, we cannot think of a single major theatre of campaign apart from the involvement of the service personnel of the People's Army, ranging from the acute confrontation with the enemy, disaster relief projects to grand construction projects encompassing the capital and provincial areas. And in their execution the service personnel have never failed to live up to the expectations of the Party and the people.

Whenever we witness the miraculous results brought about by the officers and soldiers of our army, I feel a surge of strong emotion. And what words can possibly describe such painstaking efforts and endeavours of theirs devoted to such feats of creation and struggle?

For me and for our Party, the army was a source of strength in the true sense of the word.

On the strength of indomitable spirit and invincible might, the army has always added doubled strength to our Party's efforts to overcome difficulties and bring earlier a bright future.

Our Party is always grateful to and proud of the army, for performing irreplaceable feats by unstintingly devoting their priceless blood and sweat. And inspired by its self-sacrificing spirit and heroic struggle, our Party is leading the people along the road to comprehensive development of socialism with confidence.

The heroic fighting spirit displayed, and the victory achieved, by our revolutionary armed forces on the foreign battlefields for international justice and genuine peace, demonstrated the ideological and spiritual perfection of our army which has grown powerful true to the intention and will of the Party.

The WPK will always remain powerful and its future forever bright as the reliable officers and soldiers are sacrificing all their dreams and youth to the country and the people—the iron-willed troops that are identical in the spirit of absolute service—are stoutly supporting our Party as unshakable pillars despite their difference in ranks.

That is why I am all the more glad and happy to spend this glorious moment of celebrating the founding anniversary of the WPK with our beloved officers and soldiers who will go together along the long road of revolution to the end.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I pay my deep respect to the anti-Japanese forerunners and elders representing the sacred founder generation of our revolutionary armed forces, and to the war veterans and officers and soldiers of the preceding generations who have supported the ideology and cause of our Party in the annals of the revolution with their noble patriotism and heroic struggle.

I extend militant salute to the officers and soldiers of the entire army who have made devoted efforts for this moment of celebration, both at impregnable defence posts for safeguarding the country and the people and at the socialist construction sites for carrying out the Party's plans.

I also offer warm encouragement, on behalf of the WPK and all the people, to the generals, officers and soldiers of the overseas military operations units who are reliably implementing the orders of the Party and the motherland.

Comrades,

Our Party is about to launch a next-stage struggle aimed at taking another step towards accomplishing the socialist cause, in reflection of the general will of history and the people.

Certainly, it will not be all smooth sailing, but our Party will, in the future, too, place the People's Army in the vanguard of the advance which will be more glorious for the country and the people and bring earlier a bright future by relying on the loyalty and courage of the revolutionary armed forces.

In this struggle, too, our army should glorify its dignity and honour as today, as the ranks of elite soldiers firmly armed with the ideas and will of the WPK, the ranks of strong soldiers that always win victory in every battle and the ranks of point-men who make a breakthrough in socialist construction.

To defend the sovereignty of the DPRK and protect the security and interests of the Korean people is the supreme duty and absolute mission assumed by our army.

Our army should continue to grow into an invincible entity that destroys all threats approaching our range of self-defence by dint of its political, ideological, military and technical superiority overwhelming the enemy, and it should steadily strengthen itself into elite armed forces which win victory after victory on the strength of morality and discipline.

I take this opportunity to affirm that our Party and the government of the Republic, together with the powerful revolutionary armed forces, will, in the future, too, fulfil their responsibilities in the joint struggle of the progressive mankind for opposing injustice and hegemony and defending justice and peace.

Our Party and revolutionary armed forces originated from the people, and their sacred purpose and mission are also for the people.

All the people across the country who are putting their minds on and turning their eyes to the plaza of this grand celebration are looking forward to greater victory and transformation.

I am convinced that the bold heroism, staunch stamina and matchless fighting spirit of our service personnel, who know of no impossibility, will continue to be displayed resolutely not only in the defence lines of the country but also at the outposts of socialist construction for realizing the people's aspirations and ideals and in the worthwhile project sites for the well-being of all generations to come.

Today's vigorous steps you take at this parade while flying high the colours of glory in defence of the Party's red flag, will be dynamically carried forward as full steps of patriotic loyalty to the country and the people.

Brave officers and soldiers of the Korean People's Army,

Let us all fight more vigorously for the eternal victory of the DPRK and its people and for the mightiness and shinning glory of the KPA under the leadership of the Workers' Party of Korea.

The great history and heroic feats of the KPA marching past this glorious place will encourage our advance.

Glory to the heroic defenders of our cause!

Long live the 80th founding anniversary of the glorious Workers' Party of Korea!

A dynamic ceremony of the combined military band made the audience feel boundless patriotic enthusiasm to more firmly defend and eternally and wholeheartedly uphold our greatest socialist country in the world where the independent dignity of the people and their genuine lives are guaranteed.

The performers vividly depicted with background images, gymnastic movements and dances the militant spirit of the powerful Juche-oriented revolutionary army which has been developed and strengthened under great care of the peerlessly great men, the world's strongest Korean People's Army holding the peerlessly illustrious commander in high esteem. They showed that only great strength is the firm guarantee for defending justice and peace and that the DPRK will further bolster up the matchless war deterrent for the country and the people and for peace and prosperity of all generations to come.

The performance reached the climax with torchlight gymnastics and song "We Are Koreans" reflecting the firm faith and revolutionary will of the DPRK people to accomplish the great cause of building a rich country with a strong army without fail with the wisdom and courage of Koreans, staking the honour of their times and generation, and dynamically advance towards a rosy future of socialism and communism.

Through the performance, the audience more keenly realized the immutable truth proven by history that the Party is great and the state and its people are strong as they are led by the outstanding leader and the truth of the revolution that only glory is always in store for the people following the WPK even though any storm blows on this land.

The performance, which fully demonstrated the strong desire and enthusiasm of all the people across the country to glorify the powerful socialist country forever, flying high the sacred red flag of the Party as the ever-victorious banner, true to the leadership of Kim Jong Un, the great dignity and absolute strength of the Party and the state, ended with the finale "Our National Flag" amid the display of fireworks.

The grand mass gymnastics refined in the sense of organization, discipline and unity and the performance which presented an impressive and fascinating world of art with the full combination of beautiful and elegant dances, vocal and instrumental music, acrobatics and stunts, ever-changing lighting and background stand were acclaimed by the audience.

When the performance was over, stormy cheers of "Hurrah!" were raised again.

Expressing satisfaction over the successful performance showing the sacred 80-year history of the WPK and the validity and invincibility of the cause of the Party as a great epic picture, Kim Jong Un extended warm congratulations to all the performers.

The grand mass gymnastics and artistic performance in celebration of the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK was an eruption of the boundless thanks of all the people across the country to the great Party, which regards the people's laughter and happiness as the greatest national power and cultivates a grand flower garden of the people-first principle on this land, and their unshakable pledge to greet every glory in the world on the road of believing in and following the Party forever.

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visits Party Founding Museum and makes commemorative speech on occasion of 80th founding anniversary of WPK

KCNA

The Workers' Party of Korea is greeting its 80th founding anniversary on its militant journey to dynamically lead to a new victory the building of socialism and communism, the aspiration and ideal of the people, putting the dignity and prestige of the DPRK on the acme of 5 000-year history with its ever-victorious leadership.

The WPK has performed undying feats for the country and people, purely preserving the Party's original ideals and spirit and perfectly inheriting them from one century into the next and from one decade into the next since it was founded as the vanguard of the revolution representing the demands and interests of the working people. The history of the WPK that has believed in the people as in Heaven, its history of creation and change, is shining brilliantly in the century.

Kim Jong Un, general secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea and president of the State Affairs of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, visited the Party Founding Museum on October 8 on the occasion of the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK.

Kim Jong Un made a speech.

Expressing his feelings of visiting the old home, where the ever-victorious history of the WPK started and the supreme General Staff of the Korean revolution which led the start towards a powerful socialist country was situated, ahead of the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK, he paid the most ennobling tribute to President Kim Il Sung and the anti-Japanese revolutionary forerunners who pioneered the original road of building a revolutionary party during the bloody struggle for liberating the country, accomplished the historic cause of founding the Party and laid a solid cornerstone for its durable existence and victorious development.

Looking back upon the decades of Party founding and inheritance at this special and auspicious moment of greeting its 80th anniversary at the watershed of new development and prosperity will serve as an occasion for renewing the understanding and awareness of the revolutionary obligations and duties of our generation, who have to reach without fail the finish line of the socialist cause that was started and advanced by the forerunners, he said.

Noting that the 80-year history of our Party is so great not only because it was founded in an original way but also because it etched in its banner the socialist ideals of achieving the independence of masses and invariably held fast to it, he enunciated the journey peculiar to the WPK which has pioneered an original road of socialist construction from the first day of its founding, with the Juche idea and self-sustenance and self-determination, i.e. believing in the people and relying on their strength, from A to Z, the key secret behind the Party's recording of the longest ruling history in the history of the socialist movement, the

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un's speech made during visit to Party Founding Museum

Comrades,

Let us think about why we have gathered in front of this house in the lead-up to the 80th founding anniversary of the Workers' Party of Korea.

Today our visit here is very significant, since this is the historic house which witnessed the great event of the founding of our Party.

As I stand in front of the birthplace of our Party that still retains its old appearance despite the passage of time, telling of the great history of Party founding, it is quite moving to recollect the emotions of the day of 80 years ago.

This small and simple house is where the ever-victorious history of the WPK, which has greatly transformed the destiny of our country and our people, started; and this humble place housed the supreme General Staff of the Korean revolution, which led them to make a grand start towards building a powerful socialist country. To think of this, I cannot suppress the surging emotion.

This is a sincere and warm feeling that can be felt only by the later generation who, cherishing the value of the ennobling soul embodied in the birth of the revolutionary Party and the first pages of its great history, have left proud imprints for the present and future of our country through a worthwhile struggle to carry forward its original will.

Avaling myself of this significant opportunity, I, reflecting the unanimous feelings of all our Party members and other people, pay the most ennobling tribute to the great leader Comrade Kim Il Sung and the anti-Japanese revolutionary forerunners who paved an original way for building a revolutionary party during the bloody struggle for liberating the country, accomplished the historic cause of founding our revolutionary Party and laid a solid cornerstone for its durable existence and victorious development.

I also express deep appreciation for the contribution made by the Party central leadership members present here, other leading cadres of our Party and state and all the Party organizations and officials, who are doing their utmost to perform the weighty yet honourable missions and duties entrusted to them by the Party and the revolution, and on the 80th anniversary of the Party I extend heartfelt greetings and warm encouragement to all the Party members, who have powerfully propelled the advance of our revolutionary cause with pure Party conscience and through a vanguard role as befitting members of the WPK.

My thanks go to the officials and other employees of this Party Founding Museum and other officials and working people in the revolutionary relics administration sector, who are devoting their sincerity to conveying the glorious history of our Party to posterity.

Comrades,

To proudly open the first pages of the sacred history of the founding of their party and recollect the indelible historic traces of exploration for a great ideology, strenuous exertion and heroic struggle-this is not something that anyone can do.

It is a special honour given only to the revolutionaries who can review with invariable inheritance the secret behind the glory of the victorious 80-year course they have traversed from one century into the next.

Our Party is proud that it laid the foundations of socialism on this land in the face of manifold challenges and trials, that it is striving hard to build a powerful country, which no one would dare to provoke, and that it has defended the glory of socialism, which must never be buried in history, through an indomitable struggle over the past arduous 80 years. This pride defies any description.

What did make our Party so strong and what did give it the fame of achieving one victory after another without any frustration? This thought leads us to solemnly look up at this low-roofed house and look back upon the annals of those great decades.

At this special and auspicious moment of greeting the 80th anniversary of the Party at a watershed of new development and prosperity, looking back upon the decades of Party founding and inheritance will serve as an occasion for renewing the understanding and awareness of the revolutionary obligations and duties of our generation, who have to reach without fail the finish line of the socialist cause that was launched and advanced by the forerunners.

Comrades,

The 80-year history of our Party is so great not only because it was founded in an original way but also because it etched in its banner the socialist ideals of achieving the independence of the masses and invariably held fast to them.

The socialism the generation opted for in the days of taking the first step towards building our Party in the liberated country was Korean-style socialism that conforms to our actual conditions, and the way of building it was from A to Z self-sustenance and self-determination, i.e., believing in the people and relying on their strength.

Having etched the socialist ideology in its guiding ideology on the first day of its founding, our Party has always remained faithful to its ideals and paved an original way for advancing socialist construction in the tempest of such arduous and complicated history.

The Juche-oriented socialist ideology and theory which have displayed their scientific accuracy and vitality in the whole historic course of the socialist revolution and construction in our country demonstrated their unique power in fusing socialism and the people into one and oriented the history of our Party's administration in power towards a history of advancing and emerging victorious together with the people.

The key secret behind our Party's recording of the longest ruling history in the socialist movement lies in the immortal vitality of the people-centred socialist ideology and the thoroughgoing and perfect succession of it.

Our Party's guiding ideology is the socialist ideology which has been further enriched, developed and perfected through the 80-year-long struggle and by the transformations and victories our people and officers and soldiers of our army achieved at the cost of blood.

The acme and true weight of the 80-year history of our Party just lie in having proved that the path we follow together with the people is the road to victory of socialism.

Comrades,

The other important factor that enabled our Party to lead the socialist cause along the most correct road, while recording legendary victories and miraculous events for the past 80 years, is that it has given definite precedence to the building of an original ruling party that makes selfless, devoted efforts for the good of the people by regarding them as the source of its life in carrying on the revolution and construction.

The history of our revolution and socialist construction gives clear answers to the questions of how a party, the people and socialism can be bound together with shared destiny, how the party can gain the dignity and fame as an ever-victorious guide and how the ordinary and simple people can become a great people with a strong character and temperament.

Only when it is steadily strengthened and developed politically, organizationally and ideologically and cultivates people-oriented leadership traits and styles of work, can a party fighting for the people can form one organism with them and organize and give the fullest play to their inexhaustible resourcefulness and strength and thus lead the socialist cause to ultimate victory.

The main feature of our Party building is that it has been strengthened and developed into a political General Staff fused with the people, while forming the most solid body that is ideologically pure and integral whole in organization and action and conducting its activities among the masses of the people by putting forward the people-centred revolutionary ideology as its guiding ideology and ideals.

As it has oriented everything to definitely ensuring the uniformity of ideology and leadership and fully embodied the people-oriented leadership traits in its work and activities, our Party has been able to develop into the most powerful and prestigious political force in the history of revolutionary party building and achieve the historic cause of training the people to be the independent driving force of socialism.

Our Party formulated the people-first principle as its political ideals and mode, made sure that making selfless, devoted efforts for the good of the people was established as its unchangeable trait, and particularly brought the discipline building and work style building to the fore, as its ruling history got longer, socialist construction intensified and generations changed, thereby making it possible to overcome laxity of discipline, abuse of power, bureaucracy and accumulation of wealth by illicit means which might be revealed within the Party.

Also, historically, our Party was strengthened into a more militant leading political organization through the struggle for establishing the Juche orientation in ideology in the postwar days and different rounds of self-purification process including the anti-factionalist struggle, and every time the people came to infinitely trust and support it and brought about periods of upsurge unprecedented in the history of socialist construction, being rallied firmly behind it.

It is a distinguished feat our Party etched in the human history of political parties that it created a new appearance of a genuine party that all the people love and defend like their own lives by throwing in their lot with it.

The five-point line of Party building in the new era constitutes a permanent charter for its building which enables our Party to boost its fighting efficiency and leadership abilities in every way while enjoying the high prestige as the guide for the people and the political General Staff in implementing the socialist cause.

In the course of reversing adversity and ordeals into victory and miracles, there were formed the purest and most powerful lineage of ideology and revolutionary traditions peculiar to the WPK, which can never be swayed, revised or discoloured.

The 80-year history of the WPK which has led the state and the people to socialism has left an iron truth of victory to be immortal for all ages and precious spiritual wealth.

It is that the Party, socialism and people are a community of shared destiny and that a party that always relies on the people and serves them and regards their trust and expectations as its lifeblood wins victory after victory forever enjoying their absolute support.

Along with this great truth, the ability of courageous leadership and the mode of struggle of the WPK, which has put the prestige of our state and people on the apex of the world and is ushering in an era of unprecedented transformations for the comprehensive development of socialism, illuminate the road of victory and glory that the present generation is following and our coming generations will continue to follow.

Comrades,

Since its eighth-term Central Committee, our Party has followed a new trajectory to achieve the comprehensive development of socialism.

In view of our ideals and objectives, we should innovate at a much faster pace than now; we should adopt a bolder approach and make redoubled, devoted efforts to transform all realms, all sectors and all regions in a decade.

The extraordinary political awareness and strenuous exertion of all the people, who have achieved unity on the strength of patriotism and turned all out in this endeavour, constitute the greatest of our capabilities, the most definite of our advantages and the highest of our potentials.

The speed and quality of our state's comprehensive development are determined by how much its citizens, linking their destiny to their country's and taking on the responsibility for the present and future of their state, display patriotism and loyalty in making efforts to produce the best possible results of their work.

Ours is a state of all the people, one being built by them all; as in the past, so in the future, too, it will be.

In the future, too, as we find solutions to all the theoretical and practical problems concerning Party and state affairs, our supreme principle and our cardinal standard should be to prepare all our people as befitting a powerful dynamic force opening up the present era.

The primary task facing us in leading all the people to advance along the road of victory for the cause of achieving the comprehensive development of socialism is to intensify, at a new high, the efforts to implement the five-point line of Party building in the new era, with a view to improving our Party's features, organizing abilities and fighting efficiency.

We should steadily step up political building to improve the Party's fighting efficiency and leadership abilities in every way. By doing so, we can ensure that all the people's patriotic enthusiasm and resourcefulness, as well as all the sectors' capabilities and potentials, are committed to achieving the comprehensive development of socialism under the unified leadership of the Party Central Committee.

To streamline the ranks of cadres and build up Party ranks as an elite force should be our crucial, core task for defending the lineage of the Party; we should ensure utmost prudence and perfection in carrying out this task so that ours will become a steel-strong party on a solid organizational and ideological basis.

What is important in this respect is to adopt an innovative approach towards improving the methods of Party work as required by the changing circumstances of the times and the level of the people's consciousness. In this way we can develop Party work into something novel and proactive, which is effective in understanding the public sentiments and leading them.

We should continually bolster and refine the Party's leadership abilities, fighting efficiency and art of leadership.

How seasoned a revolutionary party is depends not on the long span of its history, but on how hard it works to improve its leadership abilities and fighting efficiency, always aware of the weighty mission it has to perform in leading the cause of socialism as the political General Staff.

We should formulate in a systematic way, and use to good effect, the skills and methods of leadership, the traits of Party work and the habits of Party life, all of which have been displayed by our Party in its ruling history spanning eight decades. Furthermore, we should be active in creating and applying exemplary methods and styles of Party leadership in the new era to make our Party's ruling power absolute.

We should continue to firmly consolidate strict order and sound discipline climate within the Party, while giving precedence to the process of finding out and eliminating in time all sorts of elements and acts that undermine the Party's leadership prestige.

As I have emphasized on various occasions, cadres have very heavy and important responsibilities and duties in giving a strong impetus to the comprehensive development period which can be called the second era of nation building.

Today we need the same spirit, courage and self-confidence as we had at the time when the Party and a new country were built.

Leading officials of the Party and the state should keep the Party's original ideals and spirit as their mental attributes, have a correct understanding of the requirements of the times and reality and the essence and core of the Party's policies, and firmly cherish the intrinsic nature of the communists who shoulder their responsibilities without hesitation while directly connecting all issues to the future of the Party and the state.

Success in work depends on how cadres play their role.

They should regard it as their political principle and iron rule to assume full responsibility for the work of their sectors and units.

They should lead the masses to have firm confidence from the outset through correct planning and organizational work for the implementation of the Party's policies, not by words. They should have the ability to organically combine Party guidance with economic and technical guidance to give the fullest play to the masses' strength and wisdom. They should also encourage the masses, through principled and fair reviews and appraisals, to feel by themselves the worth of and pride in their life and make redoubled efforts. Only such officials can lead the masses and make all of them genuine masters of their workplaces.

The change in the cadres' viewpoint on the masses, moral traits and style of work should precede the change in their way of thinking and abilities.

Our Party will accelerate the advance of the revolution, sweeping away all evil practices such as ignorance, incompetence, irresponsibility, self-protection, formalism and expediency, as well as arbitrariness, high-handedness and abuse of power which are rejected by the people and cause damage to socialism, the practices revealed among officials.

Only excellent cadres who live with the revolution, defend the revolution and lead their work correctly to the goals set, persons who are enterprising, heroic and staunch enough to brave any difficulties, can lead this current era.

When we feel tired and when we need greater courage, we should take to heart the spirit and fighting will of the Party-founding generation, who held high the red flag only in their empty hands and cut their way through bloody battles to bring about a new world of communism, and should display high enthusiasm for the revolution.

We should not suspend our struggle but continue to wage the revolution until we achieve the complete victory of socialism, successfully realize the ideals of our people and attain the ultimate goal of our revolution.

We are endeavouring for the loftiest cause and willingly sacrificing everything for the sake of it.

Let us struggle more staunchly for the great prosperity of our state with ardent revolutionary enthusiasm and courage to advance towards a greater victory, finding the worth of waging the revolution in overcoming difficulties without fearing hardships.

Comrades,

Indeed, it is a proud thing that, at this historic house where the Party was founded, we can recall the course the Party has followed from one century to the next and make a pledge to give steady continuity to the great course forever at this house.

Just as we proudly recall here today the road we have followed, we will continue to greet the days when we will look back with pride here again upon the arduous road ahead of us.

This historic house will shine forever as a sacred sanctuary which carries on the lineage of the WPK and its ever-victorious traditions for all ages.

Long live the Workers' Party of Korea!

Military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025 opens

KCNA

The Workers' Party of Korea has firmly ensured the dignity and eternal prosperity of the DPRK and magnificently put its reputation and prestige on the highest level in the world by bolstering up in every way the greatest self-defence capacity in the course of dynamically leading the country and the people to great victory and glory under the uplifted banner of independence for 80 years. It is an extraordinary feat and immortal honour that will shine forever along with the history of the Juche revolution.

Giving the unique tremendous vitality and driving power to the course of our revolution pioneered with arms, our Party gained in a dignified way and is steadily increasing the invincible military power, a stately eruption of the DPRK's courageous spirit and self-respect that no one can resist and a demonstration of the most righteous strength, with its transparent faith and through the resolute struggle.

The military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025 opened with splendour in Pyongyang, the capital of the DPRK, on October 4, demonstrating the development of the national defence capabilities which is accelerating beyond precedents and limit thanks to the matchless determination and outstanding leadership of the great Party Central Committee to surely build an eternally prospering socialist power by putting forward the self-reliant defence as the mainstay for defending and developing the revolution.

The venue of the exhibition that opened in celebration of the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK is full of latest defence assets, an ensemble of the Juche-oriented defence sci-tech strength, including ultra-modern weapon systems that were developed as the pivotal military hardware of our armed forces in line with the Party's grandiose strategy for the development of national defence.

A guard of honour of the Korean

People's Army lined up to greet the head of state.

Kim Jong Un, general secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea and president of the State Affairs of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, arrived at the venue of the opening ceremony of the military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025.

The respected Comrade Kim Jong Un reviewed the guard of honour of the KPA and the glorious colours of the three services.

Kim Jong Un took the platform together with members of the Presidium practice.

The important speech made by Kim Jong Un serves as the immortal revolutionary programme and the banner of vigorous advance as it clarified the guidelines for the WPK to firmly carry forward forever the noble political ideal the Party had put forth in the initial days when it was founded and to further demonstrate its might as the most dignified socialist ruling party which has taken the deep root in the masses of the people.

Kim Jong Un looked round with deep emotion various places of the museum.

Saying that the eternity and invincibility of the vitality and leadership ability of the Party depends on how its noble original ideals and revolutionary nature are preserved and glorified as the revolution achieves victory after victory, he stressed that our Party should cherish more deeply the noble sense of responsibility and mission for the destiny of the country and the people and powerfully lead the state and the people to a fresh peak of victory and glory with enthusiastic spirit and inexhaustible vitality free from decrepitude and discolouration, maintaining its purity, even though a generation is replaced by another.

Expressing the belief that officials, lecturers and employees of the museum would as ever remain faithful to their duty as powerful information workers and educators, who acquaint the masses with the glorious history and tradition of our Party, with the pride and honour of defending the sacred place associated with the Party building exploits of the President, he had a photo session with them.

All the participants pledged to carry forward the lineage and immortal reputation of the WPK for all ages by thoroughly implementing the original Party-building idea and line of Kim Jong Un, cherishing the boundless loyalty to the revolution and spirit of making selfless, devoted efforts for the good of the people, displayed by the pioneer generation of the cause of Party building, as their lifeblood.

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un's speech at the opening ceremony of the military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025

Comrades,

I think it is very significant that in the run-up to the 80th founding anniversary of the Workers' Party of Korea, the military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025 is being held, which once again gives us a visual display of the general level attained by our defence capabilities.

This exhibition features the recent results of the important projects that we have pressed on with in order to put the structure of the DPRK's military capabilities, with its nuclear deterrent as the backbone, on an increasingly modern, advanced footing.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I express my thanks to all the groups of defence scientists and technicians and all the workers in the munitions industry for having added significance to the revolutionary October holiday by achieving proud results of upgraded defence industry.

Comrades,

This exhibition brings into bold relief the historic meaning of the 80th founding anniversary of our Party.

Since the initial days of its founding our Party has consistently prioritized the Juche-oriented defence industry, laying the groundwork for its independent development and setting one ambitious goal after another for its steady growth. Recently, in less than one year, this industry has achieved notable successes again, and I am sure that making public those successes for our people to see constitutes the highest praise for our Party's 80-year history.

It is because this exhibition eloquently shows that in building up the defence capabilities we have attained a much higher level than the founder generation of the Juche-oriented defence industry hoped to reach.

Our Party was born with the absolute mission of taking full responsibility for the destiny of the people, so it is a natural duty of the Party and its unique mode of activity to direct its main efforts to building the most powerful defence industry in the world and developing it without let-up so that it can protect the dignity and security of the nation, defend the rights and interests of the people and secure their future.

The history of our munitions industry, which provides a material and technical guarantee for our state's overall military strength, started with the founding of the Party, and this industry, led by the Party, has followed a steady upward trajectory to become as it is today. These latest achievements of defence development, which fill up this venue, can proudly represent and symbolize our Party's achievements for the state, revolution and people.

The destiny of a state and its people cannot be secured apart from the munitions industry which surely guarantees their security environment, as well as the vanguard organization which guides them politically.

As they had foreseen this undeniable truth and fully realized its realistic necessity, the first-generation revolutionaries of Korea, after national liberation, spared nothing for creating an armaments industry which would be the primary cornerstone in building a new country, while working to achieve the cause of founding the Party as their foremost concern.

The generations of our grandfathers and fathers, who had created the armaments industry of Korea, manufactured submachine guns which could be called their own things, both in name and in reality, from scratch after liberation. During the period of the hard-fought war, they even sacrificed their precious lives to produce weapons with which to destroy the imperialist invaders; in doing so, they created the tradition of the revolutionary spirit of Kunja-ri—the spirit of defending the country and displaying self-reliance.

As we have faithfully carried forward the spirit and tradition, the gunshots that rang out in Phyongchon-ri nearly eight decades ago led to a succession of explosions demonstrating the strength with which to reliably defend the independent dignity of our state and people and overpower the imperialist tyranny. And as we can see today, this has resulted in the steady production of Juche-based weapons, the like of which cannot be found in any ordnance encyclopaedia, thus decorating the venue for this splendid exhibition.

This exhibition can be said to be the epitome of epochal leaps forward made by our defence science and technology, and of the comprehensive development of our munitions industry.

At the recent session of the Supreme People's Assembly, we reiterated that maintaining security and defending peace by dint of overwhelming strength is our unchangeable principle, and officially declared that we are prepared to cope with anything.

This exhibition will prove this guarantee.

Our latest achievements of defence development, which are on display here, have been proved to be sufficiently powerful on the highest level.

In recent years, military hardware capable of actively and effectively coping with the changing aspects of modern warfare has been newly developed or upgraded, and AI technology and other latest sci-tech findings have been widely introduced, with the result that the feasibility of their application not only to the present battlefield but also to the future one has been confirmed in view of the capability of fighting a war. This is an important feature of the development of our style of defence technology that can be seen in this exhibition.

I think that everyone present here can clearly see that our defence industry is now focusing on continuous upgrading and making a leap forward in order to protect the security environment of our state; it is doing so by relying on its self-supporting foundations, through a unique course of development and by highly ingenious methods of development.

This shows that we can review the work of the eighth-term Party Central Committee with pride in having attained its goals by fulfilling its ennobling mission and responsibility for the state and the people.

I, on behalf of the Party Central Committee, extend the warmest militant respect once again to all our groups of defence scientists and technicians and all our comrades working in the munitions industry for having prepared the most valuable presents for the celebration of the 80th founding anniversary of the Party.

Comrades,

I would like to stress once again that we must never allow ourselves to be complacent about the supremacy of our state's defence capabilities, nor must we slow down on account of it.

The moment we feel complacency leads to the beginning of our advance getting sluggish.

Our military capabilities should be improved steadily.

As I have mentioned recently, the security environment and instability we are in at present never allow us to feel relieved or complacent even for a moment.

The US-ROK nuclear alliance is making rapid progress, and they are conducting various kinds of exercises to execute dangerous scenarios according to the so-called nuclear operations guidelines and to get adept at them. Recently, the United States is taking measures for expanding the stockpile of its military assets in and around the ROK, posing a real and serious threat to the security of our country and others in the region.

It is upgrading the whole structure of its military capabilities including strategic means of reconnaissance and offensive and defensive means.

What does this mean?

No one can deny or conceal the fact that the United States' arms buildup schemes are mainly geared to making it easier to launch preemptive strikes against the other side in times of emergency.

This is the very situation.

Then, what should we do in such an environment?

We are closely watching the United States' deployment of its means of strategic strike and reconnaissance in and around the Korean peninsula and their mobilization for hostile military acts in connection with a new possible threat to our state's security.

And we have adopted clear measures.

In direct proportion to the US military's arms buildup in the ROK region, our strategic concern about this region has also grown, and accordingly we have assigned our special assets to the major targets of our concern.

The enemy, I think, will have to worry about which direction their security environment is moving in.

I will not make a detailed comment about it.

They themselves should have to judge whether the territory of the ROK would be a safe place in any case.

We will surely adopt additional military measures corresponding to their manoeuvrings.

If the United States persists in the dangerous moves of reinforcing its military strength in blatant disregard of the security concerns of the states in the region, the developments will spur us more powerfully to implement the relevant military and technological measures aimed at removing the new threats and maintaining the balance of power.

Comrades,

Everyone will soon know the new goals to be set forth for the defence technology sector and the aspect of its development at the next stage.

The Party's strategic programme for defence development specifies the development-oriented core goals for all the realms of the project.

Our powerful assets for national defence capability will develop more rapidly without a moment of delay, and the cause of the WPK for strengthening the war deterrent for self-defence without let-up will continue to follow the glorious road of victory.

I hope that all the comrades present at the opening ceremony of the military hardware exhibition, which has opened with splendour in celebration of the 80th founding anniversary of our Party, will have a good time, looking round in real earnest the exhibits with a high sense of dignity and pride in our tremendous strength.

of the Political Bureau of the Party Central Committee and leading officials in the fields of defence science and munitions industry.

All the participants broke into enthusiastic cheers, looking up to Kim Jong Un, the supreme representative of the mightiness and dignity of Juche Korea and the banner of all victories and glory, and paid the highest tribute to him.

Attending the opening ceremony were members of the central leadership body of the Party including leading officials of the Party, government and armed forces organs, officials of the Party Central Committee, major commanding officers of all military and political organs of the Korean People's Army, meritorious officials, workers, scientists and technicians in the field of munitions industry, leading officials of ministries and national agencies and teaching staff and students of military educational institutions.

Jo Chun Ryong, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the Central Committee of the WPK, delivered an opening address.

Expressing belief that the exhibition, which introduces the latest level of the transformative growth of the DPRK's defence capabilities and displays the entities of strength associated with the soul of resolute self-respect and ideal of Koreans, would enable visitors to have new experience as members of the powerful state and inspire them to win a greater victory, the speaker declared the exhibition open.

The national anthem of the DPRK was played.

Kim Jong Un delivered a significant commemorative speech.

He said that the exhibition features the recent results of the important projects for constantly modernizing and developing the structure of the DPRK's military capabilities, with the nuclear deterrent as the backbone.

Since the initial days of its founding our Party has consistently prioritized the Juche-oriented defence industry, laying the groundwork for its independent development and setting one ambitious goal after another for its steady growth, he noted, adding that recently, in less than one year, this industry has achieved notable successes again, and he is sure that making public those successes for our people to see constitutes the highest praise for our Party's 80-year history.

He noted that our Party was born with the absolute mission of taking full responsibility for the destiny of the people, so it is a natural duty of the Party and its unique mode of activity to direct its main efforts to building the most powerful defence industry in the world and developing it without let-up so that it can protect the dignity and security of the nation, defend the rights and interests of the people and secure their future.

Referring to the proud history of the development of the munitions industry which started with the founding of the Party and has made a long journey flushed with victories under the guidance of the Party, he noted:

In recent years, military hardware capable of actively and effectively coping with the changing aspects of modern warfare has been newly developed or upgraded, and AI technology and other latest sci-tech findings have been widely introduced, with the result that the feasibility of their application not only to the present battlefield but also to the future one has been confirmed in view of the capability of fighting a war. This shows that we can review the work of the eighth-term Party Central Committee with pride in having attained its goals by fulfilling its ennobling mission and responsibility for the state and the people.

Noting that the security environment and instability we are in at present never allow us to feel relieved or complacent even for a moment in bolstering up the national defence capabilities, he analyzed the US real aim of arms buildup which poses a real and serious threat to the security of the DPRK and the regional countries.

He stressed that the DPRK will surely take additional military measures to counter it and that if the US persists in the dangerous arms buildup in blatant disregard of the regional states' security concern, the developments will further propel the DPRK to take relevant military and technical measures aimed at removing the new threats and maintaining the balance of power.

Saying that everyone will soon know the new goals to be set forth for the DPRK's defence technology sector and the aspect of its development at the next stage, he affirmed that the country's powerful assets for national defence capability will develop more rapidly without a moment of delay and that the cause of the WPK for strengthening the war deterrent for self-defence without let-up will continue to follow the glorious road of victory.

The participants responded with enthusiastic applause to the speech of Kim Jong Un who solemnly clarified the iron-willed declaration of the WPK which would more dynamically lead the boundless development of the national defence capability and the great leap forward in building a powerful and modern army for the everlasting victory and prosperity of the DPRK that was founded in reflection of the general will of all the Korean people.

Kim Jong Un looked round the venue of the exhibition together with leading officials of the Party, government and armed forces organs.

He said that he took great pride in having covered the responsible and glorious road for the country and the rising generations, witnessing the tremendous defence capabilities achieved with warm heart and burning love at an important moment of reviewing the 80-year history of the WPK's building and visualizing the journey of creation and change to be more resolutely made by the Party hereafter.

He stressed that the remarkable progress of the self-supporting defence industry and the sphere of modern defence science and technology that has rapidly expanded represent the strength and mettle of the DPRK achieved by our great people who have defended the Party's line of self-defence with unprecedented tenacity and absolute support and encouragement despite the trials and hardships that no one in the world has ever experienced.

Looking round the venue of the exhibition, the participants were struck with admiration all the time at the entities of our defence capabilities, another development made just in a year.

The military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025 which opened to add excitement and joy to the whole country on the threshold of the auspicious 80th founding anniversary of the Workers' Party of Korea is a significant occasion that heralds the changes of our armed forces to be stronger along with the eye-opening advance and development of the revolution in the national defence industry in the new era led by the great Party Central Committee.

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visits destroyer Choe Hyon according to second-day schedule of visit to military hardware exhibition

KCNA

The splendid opening of the military hardware exhibition Defence Development-2025 is demonstrating the overall powerful military muscle of the

DPRK and instilling the dignity, pride and invincible spirit of victors into the people and service personnel of the DPRK greeting October of glory. The exhibition comprehensively shows the remarkable development of the cause of building a powerful and modern army led by the ever-victorious Workers' Party of Korea.

Kim Jong Un, general secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea and president of the State Affairs of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, visited the destroyer Choe Hyon of the Navy of the Korean People's Army together with leading officials of the Party, government, defence and security organs on October 5 according to the schedule of visit to the military hardware exhibition.

The participants in its opening ceremony were also among the visitors.

The destroyer is a remarkable latest success of the Juche-oriented warship-building industry and a symbol of modernity, advanced character and military and technical edge of the rapidly developing naval forces of the DPRK. The harbour, where the destroyer was moored, was filled with great emotion and joy of the participants greeting the glorious moment of receiving the great iron-willed commander again.

A ceremony of the Navy was held to welcome the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un to the destroyer.

After receiving a salute from the head of the guard of honour of the KPA Navy, Kim Jong Un reviewed its march-past.

Jo Chun Ryong, secretary of the Central Committee of the WPK, made a speech.

Kim Jong Un mounted the destroyer.

He looked round main weapons and equipment and various places of the ship, guided by the captain.

He said that the super-powerful warship magnificently launched in the sea of the country in the historic year marking the 80th anniversary of the founding of our glorious Party is a clear demonstration of the strengthening and development of the Juche-oriented armed forces and another great proof of the validity and vitality of the Workers' Party of Korea's line of self-reliant defence.

He noted that displaying the image of Choe Hyon everywhere the sailors of the destroyer are on duty is to make the sailors of the new generation embody the brave stamina and noble spirit of the anti-Japanese fighter and make the stamina and spirit the permanent nutrition for the indomitable fighting spirit. The greatest power of defenders lies in making them ideologically elite so that they can carry forward the soul of the revolutionary forerunners like lineage, before the power of the military hardware operated by the warship, and this is the core in bolstering up the naval force, he added.

He praised the sailors of the destroyer for striving to fully acquire the professional qualifications necessary for the operation of the ship, expressing the expectation that the officers and men of the destroyer would become pacesetters not only in preparing themselves in political, ideological, military, technical and physical aspects but also in creating the culture of the sailors and civilization of the Navy in the new era.

Saying that the tremendous ability of our Navy should be exercised in the vast ocean to thoroughly deter or counter and punish the enemy's provocations for the sovereignty of the state and its security interests and for the eternal peace of the sea of the country, he noted that our Party would continue its struggle without even a moment's stagnation for the overall and accelerated expansion and growth of the naval combat force defending the core of the national rights.

Through the visit to the destroyer, the visitors witnessed the development of the Navy led by the WPK and the high level of naval culture and felt with excitement the great heyday of strengthening the Navy and its rosy future.

That day a reception for service personnel of the Navy was given by the Central Military Commission of the Party on the destroyer.

Inauguration ceremony of Pyongyang General Hospital held in splendour

KCNA

The Pyongyang General Hospital was successfully completed as a symbol of socialist public health, splendidly adorning the first year of the historic public health revolution, as the structures of all-round cultural efflorescence embodying the people-first political ideal of the Workers' Party of Korea, a genuine people's party, are springing up like bamboo shoots after rain.

Thanks to the great painstaking efforts of the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un to give fuller play to the advantages of Korean-style socialism and provide the people with more civilized and happier living conditions through radical, fresh and qualitative changes in the sector of public health, the Pyongyang General Hospital is greeting its inaugural day on the occasion of the 80th founding anniversary of WPK. Pyongyang General Hospital was held in splendour on October 6.

Expressing his pride in presenting the Pyongyang General Hospital, the first result of the public health revolution which the Party decided to launch, to the people on the founding anniversary of the Party and thus fulfilling the sacred duty of absolute service for the people, he extended special thanks to the officers and soldiers of the Guards unit, all other builders and the staff of design institutions who upheld the Party's policy and decision on the development of the public health sector with devoted labour and utmost sincerity and congratulated the officials, doctors, nurses and other employees who are to work at the excellent hospital.

And he indicated the future orientation and various tasks for radically improving the public health of the country in a comprehensive way in the near future by pushing ahead with the building of the sector.

Hoping that the hospital would enjoy eternal praise as a facility that injects vigour of life and inexhaustible vitality into the people and a palace that defends their health and laughter, he firmly affirmed that he would serve the people more faithfully.

When he finished his speech, all the participants broke into enthusiastic cheers, reflecting their boundless

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un's speech at the inauguration ceremony of the Pyongyang General Hospital

Dear Pyongyang citizens,
Delegates attending the celebrations of the October holiday,

Officers and soldiers of the construction unit and the construction workers, who have realized another long-cherished wish of the Party by building a wonderful modern hospital in our capital city of Pyongyang,

Medical workers and other employees of the Pyongyang General Hospital,

Comrades,

The long-awaited moment has come at last, when we are proclaiming the inauguration of this hospital.

I am proud that we have achieved the first result of the public health revolution, which our Party decided to launch in order to protect our valuable lives and inject vigour into our precious living. I also find it intensely moving that we have managed to translate into reality something that was one of our ideals some years ago.

This is really one of the strongest wishes I have wanted to fulfil, something that has always been in the forefront of my mind.

In recent years there have gone up modern medical facilities in different places of the country, and this is a perfect hospital that is up to all standards.

Modern medical facilities are indispensable in ensuring that the working people enjoy the rights granted by the state.

With the development of the times, the people's requirements regarding the protection of their lives and the promotion of their health far exceed those regarding their material and economic life, and the public health situation in a country can be called a mirror of, and a yardstick for, that country's appearance and the character of its social system.

Our country's public health system is most advantageous and people-oriented in that it values the people's lives most and the state takes responsibility for the health of the entire population. Yet, in terms of material and technical foundations, the public health sector is weaker than any other sectors; hospital facilities in particular are outdated.

That is why, long ago, I conceived a plan of building a first-rate general hospital that would perform the functions and role of the backbone in our country's public health sector, and I ensured that necessary preparations were made for several years.

The Pyongyang General Hospital is a modern medical centre, whose architectural style, components and space environment are designed to help patients remain stable both mentally and psychologically, and which meets the general requirements of modern architecture. The specialized facilities and equipment of all its systems meet all health and hygienic standards, and they help ensuring the scientific accuracy and smoothness of medical service.

The construction of the hospital was costly, but I am really pleased that we now have a perfect hospital that can provide our people with an excellent environment for medical treatment and advanced medical service. And my pride in waging the revolution is greater than ever before.

Located in the heart of the capital city is this modern general hospital, whose operation is conducive to the promotion of our people's health and the protection of their lives. This is an auspicious event to be recorded in the annals of our times when transformations take place true to the people's beautiful dreams and ideals.

Today I am more pleased that I have achieved my real desire and objective, which is to build the Pyongyang General Hospital as befits a present of sincerity for our people.

As I said before, some troubles and complicated problems cropped up in the course of building this hospital, owing to the undisciplined arrangements made by some fame-seeking persons. However, we have adopted necessary measures to remain unfailingly faithful to our basic mission and fulfilled our sacred duty of absolute service for the people.

In no case should we allow Party policy to be undermined by personal fame.

We are now standing here with pride in having defended the people-oriented character of Party policy which must never be undermined.

I would like to affirm that the vitality of the policies pursued by the Workers' Party of Korea lies in their absolutely people-oriented character.

The Pyongyang General Hospital will leave its name in history as an aggregation of genuine and deep sincerity shown by the Party, a hospital which was built from A to Z on its own responsibility and equipped with the best possible facilities for the sake of the people.

Herein lies the true value of this present that our Party offers to the people on the occasion of its founding anniversary.

Availing myself of this happy opportunity, I would like to express my special thanks to the officers and soldiers of our Guards unit, all the construction workers and the staff of design institutions, who have made devoted, sincere efforts to build this excellent hospital, true to the Party's policy and decision on the development of the public health sector.

Also, I would like to congratulate the officials, doctors, nurses and other employees of the hospital, who are present here with delight in getting posted to work at this excellent hospital and with an ennobling mission of serving the people.

Comrades,

All the plans conceived and pressed forward by our Party are aimed at protecting the people's lives and improving their quality of life, and this certainly demands that we accelerate the development of the public health sector.

Our Party's strategy for modernization of the public health sector is, in a nutshell, a strategy of simultaneous promotion.

In other words, it is to shore up the public health sector all at once by simultaneously promoting the construction of central hospitals and regional hospitals, individual healthcare facilities and medical service infrastructures across the country, and combining medical treatment and service, personnel training and scientific research.

It can be said that the Pyongyang General Hospital is just the parent body of modernized public health, a powerful engine that will play the leading role in dynamically carrying out the public health revolution which has just begun and which the whole nation will witness sooner or later.

As a hub of diagnosis and treatment, clinical study and dissemination, academic exchange and expert training, the hospital can play the pivotal, core role in modernizing the public health sector. An engine, pacesetter and assistant in the development of public health, it can provide all other hospitals, which will be built across the country, with scientific, specialized and systematic guidance and human, material and technological assistance.

I expect that standard-bearers and hardcore personnel who will play the major role in modernizing the public health sector will be trained here, and that new models and fine experience in treatment, scientific research, service and management will be created here and will spread across the country.

Today, as we launched a new revolution aimed at rejuvenating and making a leap forward in the public health sector, we have successfully completed a major project of great significance.

Comrades,

The mission of the Pyongyang General Hospital is quite important and all its officials, doctors, nurses, workers and technicians present here shoulder heavy responsibilities.

As the hospital is nearing its opening, it is imperative to make perfect preparations for its operation.

This is the first time for us to run an advanced hospital and conduct the latest medical service in our country.

In particular, as our medical workers lack experience in operating comprehensive modern medical facilities, it would be advisable to normalize the operation of the hospital from November after they have a full understanding of the relevant equipment.

They should take good care of the precious medical equipment and apparatuses, which are indispensable in providing the people with advanced medical treatment, and they should master their different functions so as to bring about a substantial improvement in medical service.

It is important to continually update the functions for improving the level, convenience and utility of the intelligent medical service system established in the Pyongyang General Hospital, so as to steadily raise the comprehensive IT level of the in-hospital medical service and management.

We directed special concern to selecting every medical worker for the hospital and building up the ranks of its staff with competent and promising personnel, who hold the highest qualifications in the public health sector, have rich clinical experience and are capable of operating the country's hub of healthcare. All of them should become genuine medical workers devoting the medical knowledge and skills, which they learned under the state's care, solely for the good of the people. In this way they can be a medical team trusted and appreciated by the people.

Now is the era when changes and transformations unimaginable in the past are taking place in the public health sector, too, thanks to the rapid development of science and technology. So, they should never rest content with the existing knowledge, techniques and experiences.

They should work hard to acquire the latest medical techniques and positively apply diagnosis methods and therapies to clinical practice in keeping with the developing trend of modern medicine. By doing so, they can steadily improve the quality of medical service.

It is important to organize refresher courses, practical training, experience-swapping workshops, sci-tech presentations and the like according to a proper methodology in order to widen the horizon of medical workers and improve their skills. And it is necessary to provide conditions for the related specialists to hold joint research and consultation with foreign medical and health institutions.

As I mentioned before, all the duties of the Pyongyang General Hospital are of key importance in carrying out the public health revolution, many of which are pioneering projects involving new research, application, introduction and formulation.

Included in them are the study, introduction and formulation of the most appropriate and effective modes of medical service and management that can satisfy the people's demand for scientific and advanced treatment at a more modern hospital and by medical personnel with specialist skills and qualifications.

Now our projects are progressing slowly and inadequately, being bound by unrealistic methods of management and old-fashioned laws.

We should go full steam ahead, without any further delay, with the work of fundamentally improving the established institutional mechanisms which, though remaining in force for several decades, have lost their vitality and bring no substantial benefit to the people, as well as the structural systems and irrational methods of operation which are not in keeping with the changing reality and hinder the development of the public health sector.

Our decision is to let the Pyongyang General Hospital, before any others, find and apply rational and effective methods and plans that meet the people's requirements and the reality, and, with the confirmation of their advantages and vitality, to create necessary legal conditions and environment and generalize them in conformity with the specific conditions of the relevant regions, units and objects.

The word revolution itself means a struggle to replace everything old and backward with something new and advanced, and it inevitably goes with qualitative change.

We must solve this problem without fail if we are to ensure that the results of the public health revolution, which we achieve with so much effort, make a substantial contribution to protecting the people's lives and promoting their health, and to provide a guarantee for the sustained and long-term development of our socialist public health sector which is responsible for the health of the entire population.

There is an obvious reason why the public health sector is weaker and more sluggish than other sectors in development.

It is the very political disease, that is, a wrong way of thinking and manner of work that have been prevalent in this sector; although they are well aware that the existing management and running system and methodology retain obvious limitations of the times, which allow not a step forward in the sector as a whole, they are persistent and obstinate in maintaining them on the pretext of the permanency and characteristics of the public health system.

There should be an inevitable change to be made, and there is a clear roadmap for it; but as the officials are making no effort to devise any appropriate measure for it, obsessed with how to shirk their responsibility and to keep holding their posts, the hospitals are not functioning as properly as they ought to do, and the medical appliances industry and the pharmaceutical industry are plodding along sluggishly and have even regressed. This is a well-known fact.

I want to make it clear that solving this problem is part of the mission and responsibility of our public health law which is designed to maintain the people-oriented character of our socialist public health system and accelerate its development. And it is one of the important state affairs.

What I would like to mention as well in this regard is that we should find the main indicator of the public health revolution in steadily developing the nation's medical science and technology and updating the public health law, and that in carrying out the revolution hospitals should bear due responsibility and offer cooperation for it, as well as engaging themselves in it.

Hospitals should preferentially be prepared in both material and technological terms to introduce the latest achievements of medical science and technology into clinical work. This alone will provide the basis on which to develop the public health law of the country and advance its medical science and technology quickly.

In future we should set up a relevant framework which can provide a legal guarantee for drawing up a long-term plan for building hospitals on the basis of not only the estimation of the present level of medical science and technology and the immediate demand but also a proper estimation of the perspective trend of their development and possible change in the demand, producing their designs accordingly and ensuring their construction.

Present here are Party central leadership members, and I would like to ask you to identify your own tasks in ensuring that the Pyongyang General Hospital fully performs its mission as the central base in facilitating the development of our country's medical and other public health organs.

I believe all of you will adopt a responsible standpoint and make voluntary practical efforts to realize the Party's intention of putting our public health sector onto the most advanced level by strongly pushing ahead with its renovation.

Comrades,

Today we have made a huge step forward in the journey for the public health revolution.

Yet, this is only a new landmark and another starting point for us.

Building modern healthcare facilities should be continued and steadily promoted until all the people in the country have full access to beneficial medical service.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I would like to refer to a number of projects for building modern healthcare facilities.

First, we intend to establish an independent organ for specializing in designing healthcare facilities.

The foremost process of the campaign for modernizing the public health sector, which is going full steam ahead at the moment, is the designing of its facilities.

A healthcare facility can be called an ensemble of architectural art, an integration of architectural technology.

A hospital is a space of specialized technology which makes a strict demand as its technical interaction must be ensured from terminals of the infrastructure to the last piece of medical equipment or appliance. It is also a sort of cultural space which should be coupled with comprehensive welfare service facilities. So, hospital designing needs a much higher level of proficiency than that of other kinds of structures like theatre or hotel.

Considering the characteristics of healthcare facilities, upgrading their designs steadily in terms of the architectural aspects is what we have to pay continuous attention to.

It is necessary to make it a rule to draw up a design reflecting the final thoughts whenever an important project is finished.

The Pyongyang General Hospital is what has been further upgraded and developed on the principle of making an architectural design by attaching importance to the utility, capacity, specialization and functionality of a relevant facility while ensuring its economic effectiveness and profitability.

Still, there are some parts which have undergone reconstruction due to shortcomings of its design, and there is also something I feel regretful about, albeit trifling, from the perspective point of view.

Only when we make a design reflecting the final thoughts, will we be able to make the most of the good things and rectify the inadequate ones to move steadily ahead for the advanced. With this can we blaze the trail and make uninterrupted progress in each construction project.

In building hospitals, we should pursue the highest possible modern, progressive and specialist features.

As it is a backward sector by comparison with others, the public health sector should begin with the stage of laying its foundation by introducing the world's most advanced and progressive things intensively and assimilating them as ours.

It is necessary to take an immediate organizational measure for setting up an institute which will be specially engaged in designing structures, ranging from central, provincial, city and county hospitals to clinics and pharmacies.

And we are going to consider the formation of a team or organization which will take charge of the project for renovating public health.

It is an undeniable fact that we cannot do anything or make a step forward with the Ministry of Public Health, which exists in name only, being left intact.

If a hospital or pharmacy is to be built, design organs, from habit, demand requirements for building process from the ministry.

So I have reprimanded the design sector recently.

The Ministry of Public Health exists in name only without anyone who has common sense and concept. If they were asked for the requirements for building process, how could they present proper ones?

What can we expect from those who have done nothing about the hospitals, foundations of public health, which have remained stagnant for over half a century?

Let me take for an example the uniforms for doctors and nurses of this Pyongyang General Hospital.

Recently I went over the uniforms. I felt so dumbfounded that I gave a severe reprimand as they looked like white cloth covering sacks.

It was the answer that the nurses' uniform was tailored according to the design from the Central Industrial Design Bureau as there was no standardization for it. It looked just like a uniform for an attendant or a hairdresser.

Is it as challenging to design the uniforms for doctors and nurses according to common sense as building an industrial establishment? And does designing them require funds?

reverence for and gratitude to the tender-hearted father who is putting his heart and soul into bringing earlier the future of the country which will be rejuvenated and prosperous along with all blessings of socialism which working people enjoy to their heart's content.

Kim Jong Un cut the inaugural tape.

Fireworks were set off, wonderfully decorating the venue of the ceremony to be specially recorded in the proud course of socialist public health as an immortal picture.

He waved back to the participants, warmly wishing the promotion of the wellbeing of his beloved people.

The participants in the ceremony looked round the hospital.

They were struck with admiration by the eye-opening appearance of the hospital, modern treatment equipment and the best conditions for medical service deeply associated with the benevolence of the motherly Party that wants the people and posterity to live in good health and free from diseases, enjoying the benefits of the most excellent healthcare system.

The jubilant night of the inauguration was filled with great emotion of the people who will enjoy a new civilization and wellbeing of socialism blooming under the care of the Party and their ardent enthusiasm for repaying the loving care of the great father with ingenious creation and patriotic efforts.

The Pyongyang General Hospital, built in an excellent location of the capital city, will shine long as a monument to the great loving care for the people, telling the immutable truth that the cherished desire of the Workers' Party of Korea is just the greatest dignity and happiness of the people and the rosiest future of the country.

They could have got help and presented even a few designs if they had only leafed through foreign literature, but this has been the last thing the Ministry of Public Health and the Central Industrial Design Bureau did.

Let me ask. Is this the stand of state organs working for the state and the people and the spirit of service for them we advocate?

Is this all what they could do?

From this simple instance we can easily guess the present state of the Ministry of Public Health—the level of the persons of this organ.

They are devoid of common sense and concept; worse still, they have no desire to do something new. We are too short of time to awaken them and make them do their work properly.

This is the reason that has led us to make a resolute determination to form a relevant team or research organ.

Based on this measure and the experience we have gained in building the Pyongyang General Hospital, we are now going to have a second general hospital built in Pyongyang.

I mean that in addition to the Pyongyang General

Hospital that is large in scale and capacity, the second hospital will be built in consideration of the population of the capital city, so as to fully satisfy the demands for outpatient and other medical treatment.

Under study are also a plan for building general hospitals in the provincial seats on a par with the central hospitals and a plan, as a link in the whole chain of the drive for consolidating the foundations of the country's public health, for setting up indispensable medical facilities in places between city and county hospitals and ri clinics.

We are going to report the above-mentioned perspective work plans to the coming Party congress.

Comrades,

It is our consistent stand that no mightiness or advantages of the social system can be expected from a state that is devoid of the will and capabilities to satisfy the demands of its people for the protection of their lives and promotion of their health.

To make it clearest, it is our will to powerfully push ahead with the building up of the country's public health so as to transform it in the near future.

Building up the public health capabilities is, in fact, as crucial as building up the nation's defence capabilities for defending the people's lives and safety against the threat of war.

In view of the intrinsic demands of our society, which values human lives most, and the demands of reality, in which public health is getting nearer to the security and future destiny of our state, I think that building up the foundations of public health should naturally be regarded as the most important of state affairs.

The heavy duty of carrying out the public health revolution, which we, as revolutionaries, have assumed courageously for our precious people, demands that we, faithful to our duty, wage a steady struggle and make redoubled efforts.

Comrades,

Let us work as hard as we can for a more beautiful future, when our people will enjoy a rich and cultured life in happiness maintaining their good health.

I hope that the Pyongyang General Hospital will remain forever a facility that injects vigour of life and inexhaustible vitality into our people, a palace that defends their health and laughter.

Sincerely wishing that all our people will enjoy good health and lead a happy life and renewing my firm determination to serve them more faithfully, I will end my inauguration speech here.

Thank you.

Our holiday was really a fantastic occasion which witnessed a succession of great political and cultural festivals.

The festivals climaxed with the grand mass gymnastics and artistic performance, the parade of our armed forces, the public procession of Pyongyang citizens and the torchlight procession of youth and students.

All these events required greater artistic skills and cultural attainments than ever before, not to mention a strong sense of organization and strict discipline.

The weather was unfavourable throughout the events, yet everybody performed their role both perfectly and creditably.

All the events were impeccable as a whole and in minute detail, satisfactorily showcasing the cultured aspects of our state and its mightiness.

Indeed, thanks to your utmost sincerity and devoted efforts, our celebrations of the holiday were wonderful, and this demonstrated the cohesion, potentials and might of our state adequately and successfully.

The weather was chilly owing to autumn rain and cold wind, but I felt my body and mind burning with fervour. I think this was because I deeply appreciated your spirit of serving the state.

Throughout the celebrations I felt so with deep gratitude and utmost sincerity.

This is by no means a rhetorical expression.

Today I have arranged this meeting at which all the participants in the celebrations are present, because I wanted to extend my heartfelt thanks and convey my feeling to you all.

I am so grateful to all of you and you are so precious to me.

On behalf of the Party Central Committee and the government of the Republic, I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks once again to you for having decorated the celebrations of the 80th founding anniversary of the Party as the most splendid of all festivals.

Joint statement between WPK and URP adopted

KCNA

A joint statement on the development of relations between the Workers' Party of Korea and the United Russia Party was adopted on October 9.

The joint statement was signed by Ri Hi Yong, secretary of the Party Central Committee, on behalf of the WPK, and V.V. Yakushev, secretary of the General Council, on behalf of the URP.

The joint statement said as follows:

The Workers' Party of Korea and the United Russia Party jointly celebrated with splendour the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK, the guiding force of the heroic people of the DPRK.

Both sides reaffirmed their will to continue developing the relations between the two parties and the two countries at a high level in the light of the ties of friendship between the peoples of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the Russian Federation and the comprehensive strategic partnership between the two countries and on the basis of the agreement on exchange and cooperation between the WPK and the URP concluded in Moscow on October 25 2018.

Both sides shared the views that the mounting political and military tension on the Eurasian continent and the rest of the world is, above all, directly linked to the aggressive politics of the West to continue maintaining at any cost the dangerous and non-constructive line to realize overall hegemonism for only the self-interest of the ruling class and the illegal interference in internal affairs of sovereign states.

In this regard, the United Russia Party expressed firm support for the measures taken by the leadership of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea to bolster up the country's defence capabilities.

The WPK expressed firm solidarity with Russia's stand on the issue of coordinating the crisis in Ukraine and full support for the special military operations being conducted by the Russian armed forces.

The United Russia Party expressed sincere thanks to the WPK and the leadership of the DPRK for making a decision on dispatching units of the Korean People's Army to Kursk Region to take part in the operations for liberating the region from the robbers of the Kiev authorities.

The Russian people will always remember the feats of the officers and soldiers of the Korean People's Army who displayed distinguished bravery and heroism in the fight against the occupiers.

Both sides reached a consensus of views on the common goal for jointly coping with the attempts to distort historical events and struggling against the forces disturbing peace and stability in Northeast Asia including the Korean peninsula, revival of fascism and Nazi ideas and neocolonialist acts persistently committed by the West.

It is necessary to defend and promote the establishment of a new world order in which the rights of all countries and peoples are reliably guaranteed without coercion from the West.

Both sides expressed their intention to strengthen the ties through active dialogue between the party central bodies, between regional organizations and between the activists of the basic party cells in order to implement the already reached agreements, and planned a series of joint events including continuing and activating the exchange of delegations.

The participation of the delegation of the United Russia Party in the celebrations of the 80th founding anniversary of the WPK marked a significant occasion in further developing the relations between the ruling parties of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the Russian Federation and deepening the comprehensive strategic partnership and alliance between the DPRK and Russia.
